Preparing for the Worst, Hoping for the Best

The Gotham Group at Morgan Stanley is proud to host New York matrimonial firm Berkman Bottger Newman & Schein to bring you an informative, collaborate breakfast roundtable.

We all know that marriage is a tricky business, with extra considerations and complications for athletes, entertainers, and HNW families. You are trusted advisors to your clients and their families, and they turn to you in moments of transition and change, marriage, and divorce. Making sure you have a robust understanding of the basics of prenups, postnups, custody considerations, and the divorce process can help make you an invaluable voice.

Join us for an intimate, curated breakfast roundtable of sports and entertainment professionals as we benefit from the presentation by Evan Schein, partner at Berkman Bottger Newman & Schein.

Let us know in advance if you have a particular question or concern you would like to address.

Christina is one of the select few of Morgan Stanley Financial Advisors to receive the firm's Global Sports and Entertainment Director designation. She built her practice advising not only athletes and entertainers, but entrepreneurs, professionals, and other successful people with complex finances. Her focus goes far beyond investing to encompass virtually every aspect of her clients' financial lives in order to become an integral, collaborative part of their broader team.

Evan Schein is a partner with Berkman Bottger Newman & Schein. He leads the firm's litigation practice, leading a team of 28 highly regarded matrimonial attorneys.

Evan Schein

Partner & Head of Litigation

Mr. Schein is a recognized authority on matrimonial law and litigation in New York State, with a practice focusing on issues that arise in high-net-worth and high-income divorces, as well as high-conflict child custody matters. In addition to his litigation work, Mr. Schein is also frequently retained to negotiate prenuptial and postnuptial agreements.

Mr. Schein also leads the firm's family law and sports practice, which focuses on representing professional athletes in family law matters. Prior to becoming a divorce attorney, Mr. Schein was a sports agent. His familiarity with athlete contracts and complex compensation structures, endorsement, and marketing deals, allows him to provide highly specialized family law legal representation to clients in the sports and entertainment industries. He frequently works with sports and entertainment agents, business managers, prominent trust and estate attorneys, and financial advisors.
